MISSION

AMT's mission is to connect clients, technology, and people seamlessly and effectively. Within this mission, our goal is to help agencies, groups and individuals access and utilize solutions that enhance and support their ability to act and respond quickly and adeptly.

What drives our mission is our ongoing desire to add greater value in situations that link and synch up communications, and to bring our customers the technology services and solutions they require to respond to real-world, 21st century needs. In many cases, our solutions help customers and their end-users complete actions that save lives, avert danger, and minimize the negative consequences of emergency and disaster situations.

HOW WE CONTRIBUTE

We remain hardware and software agnostic, connecting clients and contractors to the products and services they require without forcing them into a decision based on a brand name.

We fulfill the mandates associated with any technology program by bringing partners and products together to meet the specific needs of clients. We remain at the service of clients and contractors through the life of a project and beyond.

ORGANIZATIONAL STRUCTURE

AMT's people create real technology solutions that meet and exceed the needs of our clients. Our structure allows us to move swiftly, and to respond to clients' needs and/or the mandates of a project with resolve and efficiency.

OUR PEOPLE ARE OUR STRENGTH

Our culture is one of shared ownership, expertise, and responsibility. This reflects the overarching commitment that drives our mission. We follow through with a streamlined approach to creating solutions, and remain independent in an effort to manage and lead programs that serve our clients' true needs. Our shared ownership concept is impressed upon all of AMT's people, and drives our continued ability to operate differently than our larger competitors.

EXPERIENCE

One of our greatest motivations is the desire to ensure that technology solutions reach the people who need them. Beyond wanting to do a good job, our experience has taught us that, in far too many instances, actual lives can be on the line.

Our company is composed of informed, experienced experts who help shape and guide our swift, agile business model. We equip our employees with the decision-making power they need to act quickly and decisively for the benefit of clients and customers.

Our people have lived and served on all ends of the spectrum, from career technologists to military veterans. We understand what it means to need a solution in short order, and this understanding informs our company-wide motivation to be the best at what we do.

Our clients and partners view us as knowledgeable and trustworthy. This trust has come after years of providing a full suite of services and solutions that cover the globe, addressing everything from end-user products to long-term technology support.

While our customers are often large businesses and government agencies, we understand that their people in the field are those who truly come to rely on our solutions. We take great

We can help you communicate, collaborate and connect across systems, platforms and agencies.

The practical application of our management philosophy translates in the following fashions:

STRONG LEADERSHIP

AMT manages and leads projects and programs that support clients and vendors/partners. Our technology services actually create better solutions for clients/contractors when compared to our competitors and their programs.

CULPABILITY

AMT stands behind our work, and remains in support of our partners, products, services and solutions over time. We provide ongoing support for clients/contractors through the life of a program and beyond, continuing to be a resource for their needs.

RESPONSIBILITY

AMT is quick to respond to challenges and needs presented by our clients and contractors in the field. We are people-driven, and create solutions that meet the technology and budgetary requirements our clients face.

FLEXIBILITY

AMT's business structure is such that we can respond to our clients' needs with confidence and competence. Each member of our team is empowered to make critical decisions that benefit our clients. Our entire business model is built around divergent products and solutions.

SCOPE

AMT can structure technology programs that include a wide array of vendors and partner firms, giving us the ability to adapt quickly and effectively when a client calls upon us to do so.

EXPERTISE

AMT's swift, agile business model is built around the strengths and experience of our people. Our employees possess the understanding and professional awareness that fuels their ability to respond quickly and decisively for the benefit of our clients and customers.

pride in staying with our clients throughout the duration of a project, and remain in their service to address any issues or challenges that arise.

MANAGEMENT PHILOSOPHY

Our management philosophy stresses the importance of agile thinking, responsiveness, and personal empowerment. This allows us to follow through with a streamlined and efficient approach to creating technology solutions. Our people choose to work at AMT in part because our environment encourages responsibility, creativity and achievement.

In practice, our philosophy supports the needs of clients and contractors in the field – i.e. the end user. We are better prepared to provide services that are flexible, reliable and effective. In addition, it ensures that our clients remain at the forefront of our decisions, and are not lost in the shuffle of numbers or purchase orders. Likewise, our vendors and partner firms appreciate the speed and effectiveness of our critical decision-making, as it helps them remain successful as well.

We think of ourselves as a bridge that connects technology and people seamlessly and effectively.

After more than 20 years of government contracting, we understand what it takes to successfully complete large and small projects, and are confident we can meet any client's objectives better than our competitors can.

We think and operate differently than our competitors, starting with the fact that our focus is on each client's mission statement. From that starting point, we then work towards creating long-term business relationships based on trust, mutual respect, and success.

SUMMARY

Throughout our work, AMT remains committed to people: our people, our customers, and the people our customers serve. As a company, we move swiftly through numbers, and seek to create solutions for real people with immediate and long-term needs.

We follow through with a streamlined approach to creating technology solutions, remaining independent of any one vendor or partner in order to put together projects and programs that truly serve people. Our people have lived and served on all ends of the professional spectrum. We understand what it means to need a solution in a short amount of time, and this understanding informs our company-wide motivation to be the best at what we do.

We pride ourselves on giving each client the attention they deserve. Every order is important to us, whether it's a large, multi-firm technology program or a small purchase.

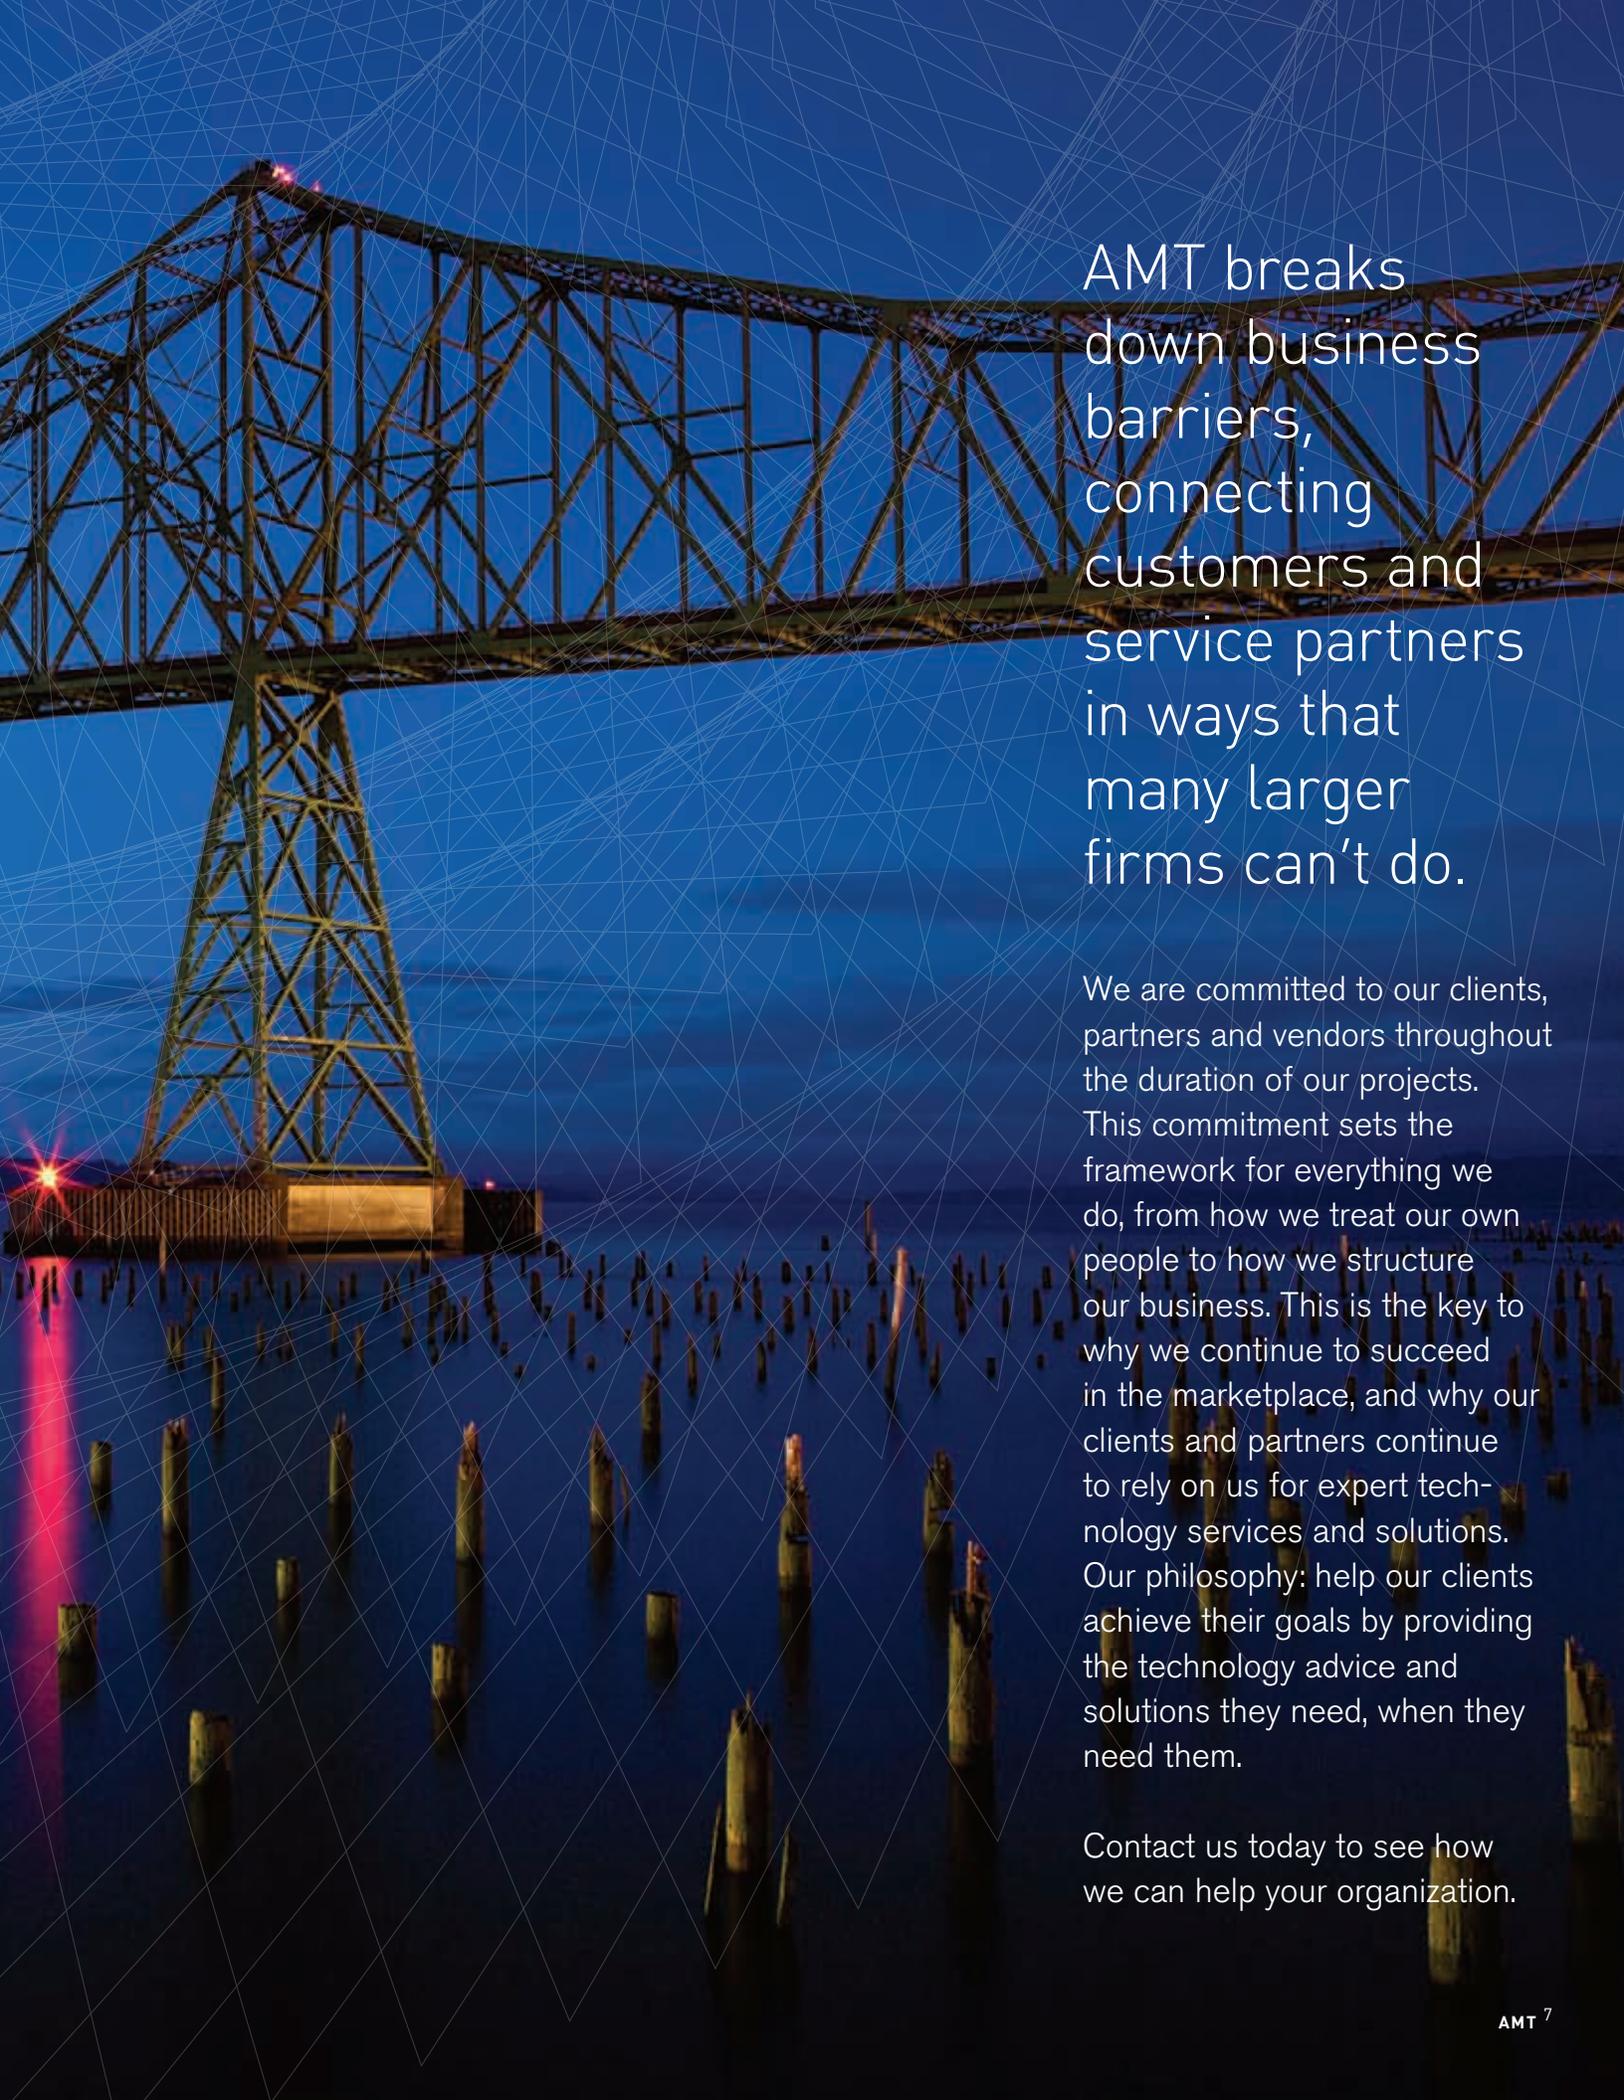

While our work deals with technology, it begins and ends with people. Therefore, our focus begins and ends with people as well.

TRUST

In addition to our core employee team, AMT's partnerships allow us to provide a suite of services and solutions that cover the globe, addressing everything from end-user products to ongoing technology support. We choose our partners wisely, based on merit, performance, and accountability.

VALUE ADDED SERVICES

We pride ourselves on the dedication and professionalism our people display when serving our clients. We are successful, in part, because we care about our clients' needs, and will demonstrate this concern on every project. Our values are clear: dedication to every client's success, trust, and taking personal responsibility to foster long-standing relationships.

AMT breaks down business barriers, connecting customers and service partners in ways that many larger firms can't do.

We are committed to our clients, partners and vendors throughout the duration of our projects. This commitment sets the framework for everything we do, from how we treat our own people to how we structure our business. This is the key to why we continue to succeed in the marketplace, and why our clients and partners continue to rely on us for expert technology services and solutions. Our philosophy: help our clients achieve their goals by providing the technology advice and solutions they need, when they need them.
